FARM ISSUE

Do-or-Die For ECM

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — European Common Market cabinet ministers today prepared for a "do-or-die" meeting aimed at getting a joint farm policy, thus paving the way for the trade group's key second stage.

The market's ministerial council was expected to reach a preliminary agreement on a common farm policy, which must be reached so that the six-country agreement can be put into effect in the four-year second stage.

West Germany and France, in three weeks in which the with much to gain or lose from decisions here, both held cabinet meetings in their respective capitals Wednesday with the

3rd Ice Age Quits Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Florida's third cold wave—all within the last two weeks—began moving south as Miami and Frosting the state's winter vegetable crop.

Forecasters predicted highs in the 70s in south Florida during the day and in the 60s in north Florida.

The latest cold wave—which Governor Farris Bryant called "a refreshing nip" — scattered

Red Leaders Red Faced Over 'Double Exposure'

MOSCOW (AP) — A photograph distributed by the Soviet government as evidence in its charges against West German Gen. Adolf Heusinger has given Moscow propaganda chiefs red faces.

Foreign ministry officials declined immediate comment today when told a photograph they had distributed—purporting to show Nazi soldiers burning a Russian village at Heusinger's order—was actually one of the Soviet government had previously issued of Japanese soldiers burning a Chinese village.

Bennett Plea 'Not Received'

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Fleming's office said today it has received no formal request as yet from Premier Bennett of British Columbia for a meeting in Toronto Jan. 12 to discuss the Columbia River treaty.

Mr. Bennett told a press conference in Victoria Wednesday that he has suggested that date for a Toronto conference with Mr. Fleming.

A spokesman here said it was doubtful whether Mr. Fleming would be able to accept. He already is scheduled to confer with a group of United States cabinet members in Ottawa on that date.

Ship Heads For Safety On Escaping 'Graveyard'

VICTORIA (CP) — As her exhausted crew slept peacefully in a hospitable village after a two-day nightmare at sea, the ship that escaped a ships' graveyard headed for the safety of calm waters today under the strong tow of two sturdy tugs.

The 10,000-ton Greek freighter Glafkos, freed from the maze of reefs called "the graveyard of the Pacific" on Vancouver Island's rocky west coast, was expected to reach nearby Esquimalt harbor at noon today.

Towing her along the Strait of Juan de Fuca at a steady seven knots were the tugs Sudbury and Island Challenger, which had pulled her from the sharp rocks of Jenny Reef, 100 miles northwest of here, where she went aground in a howling Gale Monday night.

The Glafkos, in ballast when she struck, was reported riding high despite a gaping hole in her bottom and flooding in her engine compartment and two of five holds.

At Ucluelet, a remote village two miles from the reef, grateful crew members plucked from the ship by an RCMP helicopter told of their night of terror in the wild sea, then collapsed into sleep.

Five of the crew of 27, including the captain, stayed aboard the stricken vessel as she was to the Everglades and sent the temperature down to 38 degrees at Miami International Airport, the lowest of the season and a record for the date.

West Germans prepared to be more flexible. The French reluctantly agreed that a common farm policy must be reached so that the six-country agreement can be put into effect in the four-year second stage.

Today's meeting was the third. West Germany and France, in three weeks in which the with much to gain or lose from decisions here, both held cabinet meetings in their respective capitals Wednesday with the

Throughout the earlier negotiations the six states—France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg—were at odds with one another from time to time in attempts to seek either protection for their farmers or markets for their produce.

The toughest stand had been taken by France, which insisted that agreement on a de-Governor Farris Bryant called "a refreshing nip" — scattered

"We will investigate," they said.

News of the slipup reached Moscow in the issue of the West German magazine Stern (Star) dated Jan. 7. The slipup was confirmed here by reference to the original document.

At a press conference Dec. 12 the Soviet government demanded that the United States turn Heusinger over to the Soviet Union for trial on war criminal charges. Heusinger, 64, was chief of operations of the German general staff until 1944, chief architect of the postwar West German army and now is chairman of the NATO permanent military committee in Washington.

The United States denounced the charges as a "crude propaganda maneuver."

Opposite page 8 of the official History of the Great Patriotic War of the Soviet Union is a picture showing soldiers watching a burning village. The caption says "Japanese interventionists burn a Chinese village (Shanghai district, 1932)."

At the Dec. 12 press conference this same picture was displayed as evidence of an atrocity asserted to have been ordered by Heusinger in western Russia. It was published here the next day by the official army newspaper Red Star with the caption "Fascist incendiaries surround and set fire to a Soviet village." The caption said this was done under Heusinger's order.

Also on board was an Island Tug and Barge Limited man who had helped cut the ship's anchor chain before she was towed out to sea.

Ft. Lts. D. M. Campbell and Vic Hodge, hovering above the Glafkos in a dangerous wind, took the others off five and six at a time and ferried them to Ucluelet.

The Glafkos, bound for Vancouver from Japan to pick up a cargo of wheat, struck the reef at 7:44 p.m. Monday. She lost all power and electricity as the water poured in.

New Year's Death Toll In Algeria Already 63

ALGIERS (AP) — Fresh blood flowed today in the battle of the Algerian cities. The European extremist appeared to be fostering the idea that France could not enforce an independence agreement against the French settlers' determined resistance. Most of the attacks were by gun, knife or grenade. Often one by one side brought retaliation from the other.

Two Moslems and a European were killed and eight Moslems were wounded in Oran. In Algiers, three Moslems and a European were injured.

The underground French rightist Secret Army Organization called Wednesday night for a general mobilization of European settlers for a last-ditch fight to keep the North African territory under France's flag.

Handbills calling on the settlers to prepare to fight were posted by the secret army as the belief spread that the way was at last open for an agreement between the de Gaulle government and the Algerian rebels to end the war in Algeria. The handbills gave no further instructions but a clandestine radio broadcast earlier in the day promised victory for the secret army in 1962 and said cryptically, "the cigarettes are lit."

Terrorism surged in most major Algerian cities. The attacks were indiscriminate and followed no particular pattern. It was believed the Moslem nationalists were making a show of strength to influence the secret talks under way for several weeks.

U.K. Warms Up After Freeze

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today shivered out of a record cold spell and for the first time in days the country's transportation systems were working on schedule.

Final touches were put to a thaw Wednesday night, the warmest of the new year, when the temperature at London Airport was steady at 38 degrees.

Dirty patches of slush were all that remained of the "little blizzard" that covered the southern half of the country New Year's Eve.

Man Held In Attack On Girl Skater

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Joel Lee Saye, wanted in the stabbing of a pretty ice skating instructor, gave himself up to police today.

Saye, 22, an unemployed plumber's helper, called state probation officer Ted Williams Wednesday night and said he was ready to surrender.

Saye had been sought in the stabbing of Penelope (Peany) Christine Moore, 19, a petite blonde college student who was teaching figure skating here during the holidays.

She lived next door to Saye in a small duplex apartment.

Miss Moore was stabbed four times in the attack Tuesday. One of her lungs was punctured, but doctors reported she was in satisfactory condition.

CHURCH HITS BACK

Premier Fidel Castro and high officials of his pro-communist regime in Cuba have been excommunicated from the Roman Catholic Church, it was announced today in the Vatican.

Castro, raised a Roman Catholic but now a professional Marxist, has assailed priests in Cuba as "fascists" and has expelled many of them.

Invasion Threat Despite Hint Of Compromise

JAKARTA (AP) — Indonesia stepped up its arms buildup today off the shores of Dutch-held West New Guinea despite reports that President Sukarno's regime was ready to offer The Netherlands a compromise on the future of the disputed territory.

The army announced that 10,000 Indonesian troops with the name of veterans of the fight for Indonesian independence were being sent to West New Guinea. The high government are being returned on Ambona's shore, reported Wednesday and other islands of the Moluccas to drop its demand for immediate sovereignty over the primitive western tip of New Guinea. The announcement closely followed a report from a high government source that Indonesia is willing to promise West New Guinea eventual self-determination if the Dutch agree to let Jakarta take over the territory's administration.

Col. Ruspi, military commander of the Molucca area, said the issuance of arms to the veterans and their assignment into combat units are preliminary steps to "the march forward to stop the Dutch-created Papiam state from operating and to host Indonesia's red-and-white flag in the territory."

THREATENS INVASION — President Sukarno ordered national mobilization last month and said he would invade West New Guinea unless the Dutch handed it over. He gave no indication of an invasion date.

He anticipated the "liberation" Wednesday by proclaiming West New Guinea an Indonesian province.

Snowslide Blocks CPR

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two snowslides 25 miles east of Revelstoke on the Canadian Pacific Railway mainline have caused delays of up to 10 hours in arrival here of westbound passenger trains, the CPR reported today.

The slides occurred Wednesday, one of them striking a work train and derailling a cook car. Nobody was injured, however.

A CPR spokesman said one slide was 350 feet long and 12 feet deep. The other, just 125 feet away, was 300 feet long and 15 feet deep.

The westbound Canadian was delayed five hours and the west-bound Dominion was scheduled to arrive here 10 hours late. Eastbound trains were not delayed.

Tshombe Names 2 Points Against Pact With Congo

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) — President Moise Tshombe told the Katanga assembly today there were only two contentious points in the eight-point agreement he signed with central Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula last month.

Tshombe opened the session of the assembly called to ratify the agreement with a mildly-worded speech that reminded the delegates "the best agreements are those stemming from mutual concessions."

Tshombe said the contentious points were acceptance by secessionist Katanga of the fundamental law of the Congo and acceptance of United Nations control in the province.

"I leave to you the task of determining how far our concessions can go and which articles should be modified," he said. He accused the central government of breaking the fundamental law itself several times.

ACCEPTANCE BY ALL — Katanga could not accept the law, he said, unless the central government, the UN and "the foreign powers who direct the Leopoldville central government" also accepted it.

The other points in the agreement, which call on secessionist Katanga to recognize the authority of the central government, the recognition of President Joseph Kasavubu as head of state and commander of the Katanga gendarmerie, "present no difficulty at all," he said.

Building Permits Hit All-Time High

Fire Officials Not Responding

Despite their evident interest in forming a mutual fire aid program for the Okanagan Valley area, fire officials in all but three points have failed to respond to a gentle reminder from Kelowna chief Charles Pettman. In a well-attended meeting held early in December, fire department officials and civic fathers agreed to form committees in each of the three major fire areas, Kelowna, Penticton and Vernon to discuss ways and means of organizing a mutual aid pattern.

They were to report back to Kelowna naming two representatives from each fire district to sit in on a meeting likely held here.

Chief Pettman said today he had sent a note to each of the areas to send down names of their representatives.

So far only two, besides Kelowna, have responded, Okanagan Mission, the newest fire hall organized and Lakeview Heights.

Building permit value for the city of Kelowna was at an all-time high in 1961, with $3,058,485.52 worth having been issued, according to a report from W. L. Conn, city building inspector.

SECOND HIGHEST
The 1960 total, second highest, total building permit value recorded, amounted to $1,503,200.19.

In December, 1961, 21 building permits were issued for a value of $44,835 which is a lower figure than for the same month last year, when $97,599 was the total.

During December, 1961, one new industrial building permit for $1,000 was issued; one public building alterations permit for $500 was issued; two alterations on commercial buildings saw permits totalling $1,700 were issued; three new residential building permits totalling $33,000; seven permits for alterations to residential buildings totalling $2,700; two permits for new accessory buildings totalling $950 and three permits for new signs totalling $1,685.

Individual permits for demolition of a shed and removal of an office building were also issued.

STEADY GROWTH

Indicative of steady growth in Kelowna, figures released by Mr. Conn showing annual totals of building permits since 1952 when the December figure totalled $1,700.

December totals since then are as follows: 1953, $35,795; 1954, $38,050; 1955, $94,235; 1956, $13,927.45; 1958, $52,035; 1958, $32,550; 1959, $56,375; 1960, $97,599 and 1961, $44,835.

Although figures fluctuate for each December tabulated, 1955 and 1960 figures being highest, no appreciable drop-off has taken place since 1955.

This year, with the Vocational Training College, police building and other planned construction, totals are expected to set another record.

OCCASIONAL SHOWERS PREDICTED FOR KELOWNA, OTHER DISTRICTS

There's one consolation; it's not as heavy as snow. Rain is forecast for the region tomorrow as intense gales and blustery weather beginning last night along the north B.C. coast went their way slowly southward today and will reach the lower end of the province by evening.

However, according to the forecast, the storms will have abated somewhat by the time they reach the Interior and occasional showers is the prediction. Winds are light.

The temperatures which have been hovering near the forties for the past few days in the district will remain the same with "mild" forecast.

Road conditions in the area are fairly good. A film of glazed ice covered Kelowna streets last night and made footing and driving a trifle precarious but it thawed rapidly today.

City Calls For Tenders On Insurance Of Assets

City comptroller-treasurer D. B. Herbert, has now called for sealed tenders for supplying the City of Kelowna with insurance on her assets, tenders to be received at city hall up to noon, Jan. 12.

The city is asking premium quotations on all or any insurance policies covering blanket fire insurance and supplemental contract coverage, auto fleet insurance on municipal-owned automobiles, trucks and trailers, money and securities, broad form policy and primary commercial blanket fidelity bond policy.

Tenders must be marked as the case may be, with details of the city's desires available at Mr. Herbert's office.

Fire insurance is for a three-year contract, subject to 90 per cent co-insurance and replacement cost.

City Prepares For Inaugural Meeting To Be Held Jan. 8

City administrative staff, now down to another year of serious work following the holiday season, are preparing for the start of a busy year on Jan. 8 when the inaugural meeting of city council takes place at 2:30 p.m. that day.

Mayor R. F. Parkinson and his council, together with new school board members, will be sworn to office by Magistrate D. White in the city council chamber before an auspicious gathering of dignitaries, civic leaders and guests from communities in the Okanagan Valley region.

Following the meeting, the regular Monday night business session will get under way at 8 p.m. when reports from all aldermen will be heard, including past year's accomplishments and the new year's hopes.

COMING PROJECTS

Reports from heads of various departments, together with information about the coming year's projects, will highlight the day's activities.

Mayor Parkinson, back from a combination business-holiday trip to Victoria, where he conferred with provincial municipal department officials, will undoubtedly report on the forthcoming $2,000,000 Vocational Training College development planned for a road turning start in early April.

Two tentative plans for two huge buildings and a service building are now in the city's hands awaiting approval before mailing to Victoria and the preparation of final plans and specifications before tenders are called and a start is made on one of the most important economic and educational developments in the city's history.

No mention has yet been made of the contents of the mayor's or aldermen's reports, now in the final stages of preparation.

Mayor Parkinson told The Daily Courier on Tuesday, he preferred to withhold formal announcement of appointments to standing committees until the day of the inaugural meeting.

Building, police and fire reports are expected to be ready by that time as well.

DIG YEAR AHEAD
Mr. Parkinson however, has stated at previous council meetings, especially after passage of the two bylaws for a police administration building and development of off-street parking, that 1962 will be one of the most historic years in the development of the city since its establishment.

This being so, 1961 will also be known as an historic year, the preparations for 1962 were made then.

Dollar Value Provokes Varying Opinions

It would appear that more than the man-on-the-street are confused about the value of the Canadian dollar: whether it should be allowed to fluctuate freely or be pegged at a definite discount below the U.S. dollar. The Financial Post points out that some of our leading bankers appear to be tilting on this very point.

The Toronto financial paper notices that Allan T. Lamber, president of Toronto Dominion Bank thinks our dollar should be pegged at a fixed rate or, even better, set formally within a narrow range of rates.

This, he points out, would permit Canadian producers to plan ahead, to develop domestic sources of supply, to quote firm prices without the risk that an unforeseen shift in the exchange market might undermine operations—and it would dampen speculation in foreign exchange. (FP Dec. 16.)

But Neil J. McKinnon, president of Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, has grave reservations about pegging the dollar.

He reminds us that we have had previous experience in this and found it impossible in both 1946 and in 1949 and again in 1950. He says:

"Once an announcement about a stabilization point is made, there are many forces in the market that might work against it—but if our exchange fund retains complete flexibility, it will likely, in due course, be able to bring about a de facto stability at some appropriate level."

In the past, the great advantage of the free floating exchange rate has been this. When it moved to a premium it made foreign goods cheaper and hence was anti-inflationary during inflationary periods. When it fell to a discount during periods of economic slow-down, the economy got a boost because our exports were suddenly more competitive.

There is widespread agreement, however, on one score. It is generally agreed that the discount dollar, pegged or unpegged, is good for business.

The full effects of the discount have been slow to work through the economy, according to a recent survey done by the Canadian office of the National Industrial Conference Board, but most manufacturers and exporters are confident that steady improvement in their competitive position lies ahead.

The survey shows that, so far, only one out of 10 firms can report any easing in import competition as a result of the discount dollar. But many other firms expect that the reaction has been delayed by high inventories, by the existence of long-term contracts and by seasonal factors. They anticipate clear improvement in their position as the months go by.

Only a few Canadian companies can now report that the discount dollar has brought about bigger shipments abroad, but over half expect a higher export tonnage during the next year or two. The discount dollar, however, has made many exports more profitable.

Of the firms questioned by NIBC, opinion was split about fixing the dollar at an arbitrary discount. One third couldn't make up their minds, but of the two thirds who did, a majority was in favor of a pegged rate.

But in reaching a solution to the dollar dilemma, these particularly Canadian facts of life should be given much prominence.

First. Periodic and massive importations of foreign capital can put great upward pressure on Canada's dollar.

Second. We are a nation which, for its prosperity, depends more than most on exports, and periodic decline in the dollar can add new vigor when it is most needed.

So if to spur the Canadian economy into faster growth, it is decided to peg the dollar at a discount, it may be that Canada's best interests lie in getting the International Monetary Fund to allow us to let the dollar fluctuate within a generously wide range on either side of the pegged price.

OUR LATEST IN THE AIR

Acquisitions, a accomplishment and accolades—these have been the three A's of the RCAF during 1961. Early in 1962, four squadrons of CF-101B Voodoo supersonic all-weather interceptors (1) will replace the CF-100's for North American Air Defence, while the Mach 2-plus CF-104 Starfighter (2) has been slated to re-equip Canada's NATO squadrons in Europe. The first Boeing Bomarc II's (3) were delivered to the first Canadian Bomarc site at North Bay, Ont., with the remaining weapons scheduled for delivery at regular intervals. The CL-41 jet trainer (5) was announced as the replacement for the Harvard. When delivered, the 180 aircraft will allow all-jet training in the RCAF. The largest aircraft built in Canada, the CC-106 Yukon long-range transport (6) has already set new RCAF records, while the versatile Hercules B (7) proved its capabilities during the year as the new workhorse of the air transport fleet. The RCAF won a number of honors and awards during 1961, one of the more important being the Trans-Canada (McKee) Trophy (4) which was awarded to Wing Commander W. G. Leach for his contribution in the field of high altitude physiology. (RCAF Photo.)

A Carol—New Style

By PATRICK NICHOLSON
Frank Hall, chairman of the joint negotiating committee for the non-operating railroad unions, has asked for a substantial wage boost, plus a revolutionary new "job freeze," for the 115,000 workers he represents.

Under that job freeze, the railroads would have to hold the number of jobs in each craft at the present level, subject only to a one per cent reduction each year. Thus jobs would be ensured in a partly obsolescent and diminishing industry, even for workers not yet born.

This demand would hamstring railroads already fighting a losing battle against technological developments. It is a night mare to everyone who has the interests of the Canadian economy and of Canadian workers at heart, not least the taxpayers who already have to subsidize the losses incurred each year by the publicly-owned Canadian National Railway.

But these are not the only people suffering a nightmare. It is now possible to reveal that "Scrooge" Fossil, the leader of the non-transporting transport workers union, is now under psychiatric care after a terrifying experience on Christmas Eve.

REVEL OR REVEAL?
"Scrooge" had heralded Christmas in the usual decorous fashion with his family, friends and working associates, and retired early to bed. But his sleep was disturbed by a series of nocturnal visitors to his bedside in his 100-year old brick home.

The first arrival was a tubercular man grimed with coal dust.

"I used to have a job in the mines," he said, "I want $38.65 for coal for heating your house this month, and your agreement to pay me this same amount every month every year, except the summers."

"But I don't use coal now," replied the sleepy Fossil. "This house is heated by an oil furnace." "The devil it is; I want my job," retorted the unemployed miner.

But his protest was cut short by the arrival of a bareheaded man wearing a leather apron and sucking a wisp of straw.

"Scrooge, you owe me $14.80 for feed for your carriage horse this month," he demanded. "My carriage horse! But I drive a car," replied the bewildered Fossil. "So what, that stable out back here always had a carriage horse until you acquired that new-fangled horseless carriage."

Without knocking on the door, a middle-aged woman materialized at the bedside. "I demand 40 cents an hour regular, just as my mother was always paid by the previous resident here for sweeping the house," she said. Spluttering, Fossil tried to explain that he does not like a cleaning woman now because he spent $69.95 on a new electrically-driven vacuum cleaner which his wife uses.

BETTER DAYS.

BETTER JOBS
But before he could finish, a fourth body stood over his bed with hand outstretched. "You didn't pay me for four dozen candles this month, and these bills show four dozen were delivered regular here in years past." The sleepy man stretched out a hand to flick the light switch. "See, I don't need candles now."

He felt himself surrounded by more and more grey figures, each with hand outstretched, each demanding cash.

"I don't care whether you birds-eye or whether you peel, I want my pay for preparing your vegetables," screamed a woman with a potato peeling knife in her hand.

"So what if you have an automatic electric washing machine, what about my pay?" shouted a woman holding an old-fashioned scrubbing board.

"You always bought tickets for your whole family at my cinema every Saturday night before you had that TV set," protested a little man from the back.

But their further shouts were drowned by the roar of a jet airliner passing overhead. It was filled with over 100 passengers travelling ten times as fast and for less cost than they used to travel on Fossil's transportation system. And among the highly-paid highly-trained crew was Fossil's own son.

It's roar awoke him.

Canada's Mineral Output Reaches Record $2,561m.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's mineral production last year reached a record value of $2,561,945,000, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported in a preliminary estimate.

Value of the year's output rose 2.8 per cent above the 1960 figure of $2,492,510,000 as a result of increased values for iron ore, nickel, asbestos, crude petroleum and cement. Decreased values were recorded for copper, gold, zinc, uranium and sand and gravel.

Metals as a group declined in value to $1,385,177,000, a drop of 1.6 per cent from $1,406,558,000 in 1960.

Nickel topped the list of metals with a substantial rise in value to $375,515,000 from $295,640,000 in the previous year. Copper, next highest, fell to $258,582,000 from $264,847,000, while uranium output dropped in value to $204,139,000 from $266,938,000 and gold to $156,851,000 from $157,152,000.

from $121,400,000 the previous year. Salt production declined in value to $19,122,000 from $19,356,000, titanium dioxide rose to $16,287,000 from $12,947,000, gypsum eased to $9,099,000 from $9,499,000, peat moss increased to $6,329,000 from $6,088,000 and sulphur rose to $6,305,000 from $4,299,000.

Output of mineral fuels rose in value by 13.7 per cent to $643,425,000 from $565,852,000 in 1960. Crude petroleum advanced to $487,305,000 from $422,926,000, natural gas to $63,607,000 from $32,197,000, and natural gas by-products to $22,530,000 from $16,052,000. Coal fell to $69,983,000 from $74,676,000.

Structural materials as a group rose in value to $323,063,000 from $322,594,000. Value of sand and gravel was $106,414,000 compared with $111,164,000 in 1960, while cement rose to $100,692,000 from $93,261,000 and stone to $80,666,000 from $80,641,000. Value of clay products dropped to $38,045,000 from $38,227,000 and lime to $17,276,000 from $19,302,000.

Value of minerals produced in Ontario in 1961 fell to $936,418,000 from $983,104,000, accounting for 36.5 per cent of the national total. Alberta's output was valued at $463,709,000, up sharply from $395,344,000 the previous year.

Quebec's value, third highest among the provinces, was little changed at $447,437,000 compared with $446,203,000.

Values in other provinces, with 1960 figures in brackets: Saskatchewan $218,201,000 ($212,093,000); British Columbia $192,320,000 ($186,262,000); Manitoba $99,157,000 ($58,703,000); Newfoundland $92,682,000 ($85,637,000); Nova Scotia $59,545,000 ($65,454,000); Northwest Territories $20,692,000 ($27,135,000); New Brunswick $17,851,000 ($17,073,000); Yukon Territory $12,987,000 ($13,330,000) and Prince Edward Island $947,000 ($1,173,000).

Monument, High And Dry

Not long before Khrushchev's Russia changed the name of Stalingrad to Volgograd it was officially announced that the massive hydro-electric dam on the Volga at that metropolis had been completed after 10 years of work. The story of that project gives a revealing view of Soviet planning at work.

Long before the first concrete was poured at what was then Stalingrad, engineers were aware that the dam, as conceived, was too big for the resources of even the mighty Volga. Full operation of the generators would drop the Volga so low at times as to hamper essential navigation, and the landlocked Caspian Sea would drop to dangerously low levels. But this did not halt the project, for Stalin and later Khrushchev wanted a monument to bigness—a dam capable of generating 2,563,000 kilowatts, about a half million kilowatts more than the capacity at Grand Coulee.

Now they have the dam, but there is not enough water to come near the capacity; and it has been acknowledged that very little at all has been done on 12 other Volga power dams that were to bring the hydroelectric production of the river to 15 million kilowatts, rivaling the Columbia, at least in prospect.

Almost lost in Comrade Khrushchev's report to the Russian people earlier this year was his admission of the failure of planning on the Volga and on other hydroelectric projects in Siberia.

"One cannot always think of everything," he said.

That is especially true when so few hold a monopoly on the thinking.

In Passing

The person with a guilt complex, whose regard for himself runs considerably to hate, should find it easy to love his neighbor as himself.

It is a good omen for Pan-American relations that on their trip to Venezuela and Colombia, President and Mrs. Kennedy were seen and sighed by millions of cheering people.

The Japanese stripper who held a burglar's attention by doing her act, while a roommate slipped out and brought in the police, certainly used her, er, head.

In the game of bowling, it is easy to develop sufficient thrust, but the difficulty lies in giving the ball inertial guidance.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By DR. J. G. MOLNER

My letter file includes a number about "stay-awake" pills, including these two:

"Dear Doctor: My daughter in college takes stay-awake pills when she has to study late at night. I feel this is not good for a teenager. She has become so much more tense lately. Will you comment? And also what is your opinion on cigarette smoking at this age?"—Mrs. S. E.

Dear Sir: I am a college student and have a lot of homework to do. I have tried some stay-awake tablet to keep my studies from putting me to sleep. They are supposed to be non-habit forming. What do you think of them?"—W. L.

I know it's hard work in college these days—and the colleges are so crowded that the student who doesn't keep up in his grades presently is sent home.

The colleges have to be hard-headed about this. Students should be, too, if they intend to stay in college. These pills are at best a poor substitute for staying awake naturally. They may keep a person from falling dead asleep—but they don't improve mental alertness. Quite the reverse. It's a foggy sort of wakefulness.

True, they may not be habit-forming in the sense of causing an addiction or physical craving for them. But they can become a habit when anybody puts too much dependence on them.

Furthermore, the pills don't add any extra useful hours to the week. Whipping up the nerves to more activity when the body is demanding sleep simply means that the lost rest must be made up in some other way or at some other time. Maybe you stay more or less awake far into the night, but you'll pay for it by being tired later.

There are plain reasons for fatigue—which includes being unable to stay awake without drugs. An obvious one is not enough sleep, because of excessive extra curricular activities—sports, clubs, dates. Or the hard task of having to work in addition to going to school.

Inadequate nutrition is another and not eating breakfast is a more powerful factor than many people suppose.

Stuffy rooms or excessive smoking can also make people sleepy.

And, frankly, a subject in which the student isn't really interested usually makes him sleepy. The best answer I can offer is that since you've signed up for the course, willingly or not, study it first; save the more interesting ones until later.

Coffee, a brisk walk, or even five minutes of calisthenics is enough to wake up somebody who has been getting enough sleep, food and exercise.

Smoking among college students is pretty much an individual choice. By and large, children reflect the attitudes of their parents, but not always. You can't just tell 'em not to smoke and expect it to stick. You can hope that they are smart enough not to get the habit.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 50 and still having my periods regularly. Can I become pregnant?" Or am I too old?—Mrs. R. L.

You can, so far as the presence of periods is concerned. Age itself is not the important factor. I repeat for the second time—second or sixtieth—that there's no absolute rule. But one year after the last period, the prospects of pregnancy are virtually non-existent.

Note to H. W.: About 10 grains of quinine a day seem to be adequate to control malaria, although, these days, some other drugs have proved more effective. I don't believe that it is necessary to take doses "every two hours."

NEW VERNON COUNCIL SWORN IN

Tourist Boosting Tops

VERNON (Staff) — Top priority project under the new civic administration will be tourist industry promotion, Mayor E. Bruce Cousins said Wednesday night following his installation as chief magistrate of Vernon.

Oyama Firemen Given A Party

OYAMA (Correspondent) — Oyama volunteer firemen have now experienced two full months without a call.

To celebrate a New Year's Eve party was held for them and their friends in Harry Byatt's barn.

The highly successful affair was attended by nearly 100 people who welcomed in the New Year in the traditional manner.

Following the event the firemen made a cash donation of $25 to the March of Dimes.

Other donations made recently by this community-minded group included two cash grants totaling $150 to the local Fire Protection District for the purchase of additional 2½ inch fire hose and a set of double tire chains which have been installed on the fire truck.

At that time, the Premier's personal cheque for $100 began the fund for the purchase of the chain and robes of office. "This proves," Mr. Becker said, "that Mr. Bennett is not only premier of Kelowna... but of Vernon as well."

Sharing the platform were members of the 1962 council, re-elected Ald. Franklin Valar and Eric Palmer and new public but held at inopportune times, the significance of the occasion in city affairs made it desirable the public be included.

Mayor Cousins said he did not wish to make a platform policy "at this time," but other than expanded areas for downtown parking, which required immediate action, he said, and new and improved garbage disposal systems, must be found.

Following the installation, William Seaton conducted the Vernon Male Chorus with a selection of songs and dedicated "Stout Hearted Men" to the new mayor and aldermen.

Ald. Eric Palmer presented former Mayor Becker with the desk pen used by Queen Elizabeth II to sign the City Hall register in 1959. Messages of congratulations were received from the Chamber of Commerce.

FINED $200 — A Vernon man, James T. Crowder, was found guilty and fined $200 and costs in police court here Wednesday on a charge of impaired driving Dec. 23. He pleaded not guilty to the charge.

CITY ACCOMMODATION — There are three hotels and nine motels within the city limits of Vernon.

No One Held to Blame In Fatal Vernon Fire

VERNON (Staff) — A coroners' jury Wednesday night ruled that Mrs. Gordon Lamb, 52, and James Thomas Carpenter, 76, died as a result of injuries received in the Coldstream Hotel fire here Dec. 23 of undetermined injuries. Jurors stated no blame was attached to anyone in the deaths.

During the lengthy hearing which lasted nearly three hours to a packed court room, 15 witnesses were heard, many of them residents of the ill-fated hotel.

One of the most revealing testimonials was delivered by Gordon Lamb, husband of the dead woman.

Mr. Lamb described events leading up to the fire; his mad scramble of escape; and his subsequent rescue by firemen.

"About 11:05 p.m. I discovered my wife had been locked out of our rooms. I walked up to the third floor to allow her entry to the apartment and started downstairs to continue my duties. (Lamb was a part-time worker in the hotel)."

"On the way down I passed Jimmy's room (James Carpenter) and dropped in for a Christmas drink where I stayed until 11:55. I asked him at that time to come to our room to watch television. He said he would. Leaving his room I could smell something. Then, upon investigation I saw flames and the smoke became terrific. By this time Jimmy was with my wife watching TV and I called to them to come out... 'There's a fire!'"

"I re-entered the room... it was full of smoke... and opened the window to climb out on the ledge. I waited a few seconds and came back. I could see nothing."

"I crawled across the floor and eventually came back to the window and out on the ledge again. I stayed there until an aerial ladder was hoisted and rescued me. I told firemen: 'My wife and another man is in there.' The next time I saw her was on a stretcher in front of the hotel."

Mr. Lamb admitted he had been drinking prior to the fire. Witness Ernest Oppenheimer testified he had seen Mrs. Lamb prior to midnight and the fire leaving the Allison Hotel in "a weaving condition." He said: "I walked with her for a few steps... she was not steady on her feet."

HELP SURVIVORS — Volunteer fireman Donald Johnson said he helped survivors from the third floor of the hostelry. When he entered the Lamb room from the window, a body was lying on the bed in a slumped position. It was later discovered to be Mrs. Lamb, he said. Her head was facing the foot of the bed and she was fully clothed. Four members of the fire department, entering from the door, carried Mrs. Lamb to the street.

Driver of the aerial ladder truck, volunteer Harold Burgenmaster, said when he arrived at the scene, there was a man on the ledge of the third story. The man (Gordon Lamb), according to the fireman, rushed down the ladder and on the street where he became lost in the crowd of onlookers. Burgenmaster said Lamb did not mention at that time anyone was trapped in the rooms on the third floor.

Mr. Lamb later stated he "didn't think" he told anyone about James Carpenter being in his room, and it wasn't until later, following inquiries he discovered Carpenter was dead. (Carpenter's body was found draped over a table in the Lamb's room nearly 14 hours after the outbreak of the fire at 12:05 a.m.)

Deputy Fire Chief William Grey, and A. H. Johnston, investigator for the fire marshal's office, Vancouver, stated it was their opinion the fire started in the closet of the Lamb apartment and subsequently spread to an adjoining storage room, used to house bedsteads, mattress, and other hotel necessities.

Other witnesses included hotel guests, residents, employees, firemen, and police. Co-owner of the hotel, Arthur D. Hutt said the hotel was insured for $150,000, but rebuilding costs would considerably top this amount.

The jury deliberated less than 15 minutes before bringing in their verdict. No recommendations were offered.

POOR WIRING — Provincial electrical inspector Edward Braun, who examined the hotel three days before the fire, said the wiring was poor.

He testified that each room had but one hanging outlet, and from these such appliances as refrigerators, TV sets and other electrical machines were fed. However, he stated that in "this case" he did not think the fire started from faulty wiring.

FIRE DAMAGE ESTIMATED

VERNON (Staff) — Fire damage in Vernon during 1961 has been estimated at $115,000 including the pre-Christmas Coldstream fire. There were 88 calls made by the fire department during the year, which compares to 116 in 1960 for a total estimated fire damage of $57,000. Two lives were lost in fires in 1961.

He testified that each room had but one hanging outlet, and from these such appliances as refrigerators, TV sets and other electrical machines were fed. However, he stated that in "this case" he did not think the fire started from faulty wiring.

Those Tired-Of-Living Fish

Give Scientists Headache

SYDNEY (AP) — Australian scientists are baffled by the case of the suicidal fish.

For four days beaches on the northern coast of New South Wales were littered with hundreds of thousands of dead or dying fish. When people threw them back into the water the fish struggled to the shore again in a vertical position with heads out of the water.

A reporter who went to sea in a trawler to observe the phenomenon said later: "I saw the amazing sight of fish swimming in an upright position, gasping for breath — then dying. They swam crazily on their tails round and round in small circles — an inexplicable, spiraling death dance."

The main death area was Evans Head, 512 miles north of Sydney, but the affected area covered 180 miles of coastline. One trawler working half a mile off Evans Head and in 100 feet of water hauled up 200 pounds of dead fish in two drags. The fish included snapper, mullet, bream, jewfish, yellowtail, mackerel, whiting and pilchards.

BLAME ARMEN
Some people ascribed the mystery death wave to bombing practice by the Australian Air Force, which has a range of a few miles offshore. But experts pointed out that a bomb blast would kill fish only in the immediate area — certainly not along many miles of coastline.

A marine biologist suggested three possible explanations — chemical contamination of the Evans River, which flows into the sea at Evans Head; an outbreak of disease peculiar to certain species of fish; and a form of plankton that produces chemicals poisonous to fish.

TRAFFIC CENTRE
CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP) Gander no longer is a one-industry town dependent on traffic through the big Gander airport to keep it going, says E. P. Hanley, manager of Pan-American Airways at Gander. "The economy of Gander is not declining, but it is changing," he said.

NEW-TYPE COLLEGE
SILSOE, England (CP) — A £350,000 National College of Agricultural Engineering, said to be the first of its kind in the world, will open here in 1963. It will accommodate 100 students from Britain and overseas.

FIRST PENALTY SHOT IN DECADE

Keon's Injury No Foil; Paces 3-1 Leaf Success

Montreal goaltender Jacques Plante must be wondering what it's like to face Dave Keon when he's healthy. The 21-year-old Toronto Maple Leaf centre, nursing a groin injury so painful that he has been excused from practice sessions for more than a week, hobbled onto the ice for Wednesday night's game with the National Hockey League leaders. In the first period he beat Plante for the Leafs' second goal in what turned out to be a 3-1 victory over the Canadiens. In the second period he beat the goaltender twice but both shots hit goalposts. Then he sent a long drive at Plante that the unnerved netminder allowed to bounce in off his stick. From a goaltender unaccustomed to such glaring misuses, there could be no more sincere tribute to last year's NHL prize rookie.

To add to the night's drama, the 13,856 fans at Maple Leaf Gardens were treated to their first penalty shot in at least a decade when Keon was pulled down in the Montreal goalmouth. The youngster took it with aplomb—and hit the post.

HAWKS CLOSING IN

While the Leafs were narrowing Montreal's lead to two points and had two games in hand, Chicago Black Hawks stretched their unbeaten streak to six by defeating New York Rangers 2-1 at Madison Square Garden and moved within three points of the third-place losers.

Bobby Hull, celebrating his 23rd birthday, scored Chicago's first goal and then set up Stan Mikita for the other.

The Hawks, winning their second game in a row after tying four, now have a four-point bulge over the fifth-place Detroit Red Wings.

After Dick Duff opened the Toronto scoring with his 13th goal of the season, Keon connecting with a rising seven-foot-er. He was awarded his penalty shot when he was dragged down by Montreal's Ralph Backstrom while in the clear. Only nine other penalty shots have been called by NHL referees since the 1950-51 season. One of these came last Sunday at Detroit with Gordie Howe of the Red Wings scoring against the Leafs' Johnny Bower. Of the last 10 penalty shots, only three did not result in goals. Besides Keon, Ron Murphy missed for the Rangers in a game against Toronto during the 1955-56 season and Larry Leach failed to score for the Bruins against Chicago in 1959-60.

SHUTTLE TALK

By MARJ McFADDEN
I was idly leafing through this publication when I saw IT! Our sports editor, no doubt in a post-holiday season haze, had been amusing himself by making up awards for people and things. He was struggling mightily to fill the spaces so had included this award, "Badminton Club—Most Piblicity Shy". How low, I thought, I can stoop to placate the type setters? Better a blank space than such twaddle. (NO! Not this column! That one!) My first feeling was, "The ingrate!" and then due probably to the mellowing effect of my New Year's resolution, I said to myself, "Throw some meat to the beast." So— A quick recap of the 1961 fall season shows an increased membership in the club. Bob Brooks as new president and four playing times—Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights, and Sunday afternoons. Three tournaments were held, one open tournament at Kamloops, and two of the handicap variety in Kelowna. The names of Lamont, Larson, Stevens and of new member John Walmesley appeared in the finals' bracket in tournaments, as did those of well-known out-of-towners Davies, Dalin, Haley and Thornton. Then Monday evening, Dec. 18 saw inter-club matches with visiting Pentiction players—an evening enjoyed by all. Tournaments loom large for 1962, with Salmon Arm leading off on Jan. 20. Vernon's turn comes in February, then in March the B.C. Central tournament takes place here in Kelowna. This always attracts a large entry, and is usually one of the better tournaments of the year.

The large competition in Nelson comes in April, and is near the end of the badminton season. So for the "Tournamentophiles" or those who take their badminton in smaller doses, the coming season promises to be a busy and enjoyable one. And now, thanking you kindly, Mr. G., if you will just leave off the "shy" when having the award inscribed, with your help we may make the revised reading come true!

A very happy New Year to one and all, even sports editors.

Name Linked Forever With Ball Park

CHICAGO (AP)—Although the last of the Comiskey has stepped out of the club, the home of Chicago White Sox will continue to be known as Comiskey Park. Arthur C. Allyn, president of the American League club, made the announcement today in response to a number of inquiries. "Charles A. Comiskey—the old roman, as he was called—founded the White Sox and established them in Chicago," Allyn said. "The park was named for him but it is only fitting that his contributions to baseball should be so commemorated."

Names in today's news cover the lifespan of organized hockey, and the whole sport phalanx.

Cecil "Babe" Dye died in a Chicago hospital at the age of 63. Those who played with Dye claimed the puck whistled through the air, it was so fast. Hockey may have known greater participants, but few so consistently excellent.

Jack Nicklaus, being mourned by sport purists for having left the amateur ranks for the lucrative pro tour in golf, is the centre of attention even before the 1962 tour opens, which is today. He seeks his first pro tournament cheque. His amateur record was quickly reviewed by the old-line pros, who don't appreciate talent like this edging in on their financial stamping grounds.

Paul Richards, general manager of the Houston Colts National League entry, played Russian roulette with a piece of sod in weird ground-breaking ceremonies marking beginning of construction of the major league's first all-weather stadium. Colts will be ensconced in this $22 million dollar luxury home.

Dave Dauphinee, general manager of the luckless Vancouver Canucks, ran up an expensive long-distance phone bill trying to cut the umbilical cord between Eddie Shore's Springfield club and the Canucks without harming his WHL entry. Dauphinee said Shore is "pushing the Canucks around."

Bruce Kidd, track star, brightest light in the East—and West—voted Canada's most outstanding athlete per 1961, will lead Toronto's contingent in a tournament, Knights of Columbus Boston meet, Jan. 13.

Roger Bannister, a name no track buff present or future will be likely to forget, since he was history's first recorded four-minute miler, will leave London Jan. 12 for a year's research in neurology in Boston.

Roy McBride, GM and coach of Spokane Comets, has been fined with a tithe for misconduct at a game with Portland Buckaroos Monday. Fine was $250. McBride was removed from the coaching box by the referee and then committed unsportsmanlike conduct post-removal. Al Leader levied the tax: $50 for removal from bench, and $200 for conduct unbecoming to a coach.

Dave Keon, sophomore Leafs' centre, performed almost single-handedly in his team's triumph over the starry Canadians. (See lead story.)

Ed Lawson, 20-year-old centre, has been sent to Portland from Pittsburgh Hornets. The trading of Lawson completes a barter in which Hornets of AHL received the services of forward John MacMillan from Toronto of the NHL.

Reg Knight, British golf pro, is selling himself, by shares, planning to use the money to finance a Far Eastern golf tour. He needs $1,680 and is selling his shares of himself in $14 and $28 units. He has set a prize money target of $70,000, hoping to use the money to pay his, literally his, shareholders a good dividend.

Jack Kemp, QB of San Diego Chargers, says Sunday's battle will be done in the air. Kemp will share hurling duties for the Western Division all-stars with Cotton Davidson of Dallas, Texas.

Vester Flanagan, six-foot-four, 250-pound tackle from Humboldt College, signed yesterday with Sask. Roughriders for 1962 season.

AND MORE CABBAGE AND THINGS

I see by Shuttle Talk that Marj McFadden rose to the bait.

It's pure irony, isn't it? I've been raked over the coals of a Vernonite's ire for daring to say the Canucks were no problem for the Junior Bucks (definitely not). They have, he informs me, tied up or won all of last five games. On home ice, that is.

The problem, says he, is simply that the time element keeps them from travelling. Employers are reasonable people where sport is concerned, and an hour or two of labor lost hardly seems a burden if the reason is good.

HALF THE SCORING

No Hope for Fabled Fifty

It should be fairly obvious by now that neither Bernie Geoffrion nor Frank Mahovlich will come close to the magic 50-goal mark in the National Hockey League this season. They aren't booming in the goals as they did last year.

After the New Year's holiday weekend games, Mahovlich of Toronto Maple Leafs has scored only 15 goals and Geoffrion of Montreal Canadiens has clicked on 12. At this time of the 1961 schedule, Mahovlich was thundering along at a great clip with 34 goals and Geoffrion was next with 26.

Everyone knows that the 30-year-old Geoffrion equalled the record 50 set in 1941-42 by retired team-mate Maurice Richard and that Mahovlich fell two short. The Leaf left-winger went sour in the later stages while Brown Boom was the terror of NHL goalkeepers.

No Tighten Up Command On Penalty Shot Rules

TORONTO (CP)—Carl Voss, referee-in-chief of the National Hockey League, said Wednesday night there has been no pressure for stricter enforcement of rules covering the awarding of penalty shots. Two penalty shots have been called in Toronto Maple Leafs' last two games, compared with an 11-year span in which only nine were called in the entire league.

Voss said he has not issued any instructions on penalty shots since a pre-season meeting at which modifications in the rule were explained to officials.

"We felt that we had to modify and clarify the rules if we were going to keep the penalty shot in the book," he said. "Referees were brainwashed on the subject. No one was sure enough on the circumstances required. I would show them a film of a play where I felt a shot should have been given and they would agree, yet the man concerned would admit that he never even considered it at the time."

"The new wording takes out a lot of the judgement involved in calling a penalty shot. To my mind, that's why it's more frequent. There have been two in the NHL and two in the American League so far this season. 'I can't recall any incident in games I have seen, other than those called, when I felt a penalty shot could or should have been given.'"

The rule requires that:

1. The infraction must take place in the attacking zone (inside the offending team's blue-line). Previously it could occur anywhere on the ice.
2. The puck carrier must be completely in the clear.
3. The foul must be committed from behind the puck carrier.
4. The puck carrier must lose a reasonable opportunity to score.
5. The player fouled must take the shot. Previously any member of his team was permitted to take it.
6. No minor penalty shall be served by the offending side regardless of whether a goal is scored.

A penalty shot is also awarded in instances where a player, other than a goaltender, deliberately holds the puck in his own crease. This infraction was called by referee Frank Duvary in Detroit Sunday night.

He spoke at a meeting of the National Alliance Football Organization, made up of groups representing small colleges, junior colleges and high schools.

The text of his speech was made available to the press in advance of delivery.

STRANGEST RACE — AROUND WORLD

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Stirling Moss, top British auto racing driver, lost to Australian Jack Brabham in the strangest race they ever contested.

Both left London Monday and flew in opposite directions around the world in an attempt to reach Auckland, New Zealand, by noon today for compulsory Grand Prix practices.

Brabham flew via the United States, missed his Fiji-to-Auckland plane Wednesday and flew on to Sydney. Here he learned the midnight Sydney-to-Auckland plane was cancelled. He flew back to Fiji to catch the Fiji-to-Auckland plane.

Moss travelled via the Middle East but his plane was delayed in Singapore and he arrived at Sydney today a day behind schedule. "There was no service that would get him to Auckland by noon," Moss said. "Missing out means I will have to start from the back of the field. But it will be possible for me to qualify."

Brabham arrived in Auckland in time, Moss is due there tonight. It means Brabham probably will start on the front row and Moss will be at the back, 20 yards behind Brabham.

He shook off his ailments, scored goals No. 28 and 29 on Feb. 2 against the fading New York Rangers, and was on his way. Before the month was out, he had raised his total to 40, helped along by a two-goal effort against Boston Bruins and a three-goal night against the Rangers.

At this point, Geoffrion had taken over the lead from Mahovlich and it appeared certain he would make it.

In the next 14 days Geoffrion scored eight goals—two against Detroit, three against New York and two against Boston in successive games. In Canadiens' 67th game of the schedule, he made it 49 and in his 68th he beat Cesare Maniago, serving in the Toronto nets for the injured Johnny Bower, for No. 50.

Offensive Elbow "Formidable" As Weapon

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"The elbow has become a formidable offensive weapon" in football, a doctor told United States college and high school athletic officials today.

Dr. Allan J. Ryan of Meriden, Conn., said sportsmanship, not rules, is needed to "help make the injury problem less serious."

He spoke at a meeting of the National Alliance Football Organization, made up of groups representing small colleges, junior colleges and high schools.

The text of his speech was made available to the press in advance of delivery.

Last Goal For Babe Dye Dies After Long Illness

CHICAGO (CP)—Cecil (Babe) Dye, hockey's hardest and most accurate shot, when he was a star of the 1920s in the National Hockey League, died here Wednesday in hospital after suffering a stroke.

The 63-year-old Dye had been in the University of Chicago Hospital for several months after suffering a severe heart attack.

Hockey always was the Babe's first love, although he might have made his way to fame in baseball as did another Babe of the same decade—Babe Ruth.

The late Connie Mack offered Babe Dye, an all-around athlete, $25,000—a phenomenal sum at that time—to turn professional with baseball's Philadelphia Athletics in 1921. Dye turned the offer down because he said it would conflict with his hockey career.

To this day, few people dispute the power of Dye's famous shot. Those who played with him still think he had the deadliest shot in hockey.

Dye played eight seasons as a right winger in the NHL—seven with Toronto St. Patricks and one with Chicago Black Hawks. In that time he scored 202 goals—a tremendous performance considering that some of the seasons were only one-third of the present-day 70-game schedule.

Today, only a select few in the NHL regularly score 20 goals a season with the longer schedule and most of them need 10 seasons or more to reach the select 200-goal circle.

COLLEAGUES SADDENED

Tributes came quickly when the news of Dye's death reached the hockey world.
